Grounds for reporting hate

Summary

Social media platforms do not remove the majority of hateful comments reported as a regular user, and the trusted flagger/partner status remains essential to eliminate hateful comments. The number of reports that received a response within 24 hours is on decrease. The issue of geoblocking persists, making hate speech content removal somewhat redundant. There is improvement in feedback given by platforms in cases where it was previously missing. In some cases and some countries, 99% of the reports were ignored and there was 0 removal rate.
