

SPORT

Licra has also developed actions in sport especially in football. It proposes pedagogical training for educators, young people and sport leaders. Licra is in partnership with sport federations, for example the French Professional League of Football (LFP) and member of European network as Football Against Racism in Europe (FARE). Our INGO is responsible for the French-speaking countries of the organization of the actions weeks against racism in football.

INTERNATIONAL

The international committee first mission is the development of the INGO influence and presence in foreign countries and is specialized in monitoring political and social events. It promotes information about international topics as for example cyber-hate, Human rights, ethnic minorities' situation, freedom of speech and "laïcité" (secularism). Licra is a member of the International Network Against Cyber-Hate (INACH) since 2009, has consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council (UN) and participatory status for international non governmental organizations with the Council of Europe.

THINK TANK

A think tank called "Le Cercle de la Licra" has been created in 2011 for strengthening its action. It is specialized in Human rights and contemporary issues. It is a lab of ideas and debates composed of NGO leaders, academics, business leaders, artists and senior officials. The think tank proposes interviews and public debates. The Licra's newspaper "Le Droit de Vivre" created in 1932, is also an essential vehicle for transmission of Human rights and Licra's activist engagement (36, 000 copies per year).
